The image displays two windows from the PrintLimit software interface. The 'Preferences' window on the left is divided into several sections: 'Balance', 'User', 'Computer', and 'Document Title'. The 'Balance' section includes options for setting an initial balance (20.00), warning users when the balance is low (1.00), and denying printing when the balance is zero. The 'User' section allows for disabling accounts after 180 days and blocking print jobs from disabled accounts. The 'Computer' section restricts printing to specific computers. The 'Document Title' section blocks print jobs with certain strings or user names. The 'Policies' window on the right contains sections for 'Limit Per Job', 'Color', 'Size', 'Time', and 'Waiting Jobs'. Each section offers rules to pause or delete print jobs based on specific criteria, such as page limits, color usage, file size, or time of day. Both windows feature 'Save' and 'Exit' buttons at the bottom.
